Student Council Plans Elections, Directories, Plus

"How can I get to her house if I don't know her address?" If this is your problem, it can easily be solved by looking in the new Lamar Directory. This list of names, addresses and phone numbers will come out about the middle of November.

The Student Council, sponsored by Mr. Ernest Mills, puts a great deal of work into the directory. The chairman of this year's directory staff is Pat Shannon whose main concern is writing the articles on the clubs and organizations which introduce the directory. Helping Pat and Business Manager Nolan Marye are: India Chrono, Liz Lumkin, Meredith Ingram, Bill Monroe, Karen Tellepsen and Clelia Windrum.

"Special recognition should be given to Clelia," commented Mr. Mills. "She is our Office Secretary of the Student Council." Clelia, high junior, is the official typist for the council and will do much of the typing on the directory and for activities which concern the Student Council.

The officers, Mike Hattwick, president; Pat Shannon, vice-president; Sukey Fenoglio, secretary; and Kay Olsen, treasurer, have distributed the duties of the council over five committees: Election, Nominating, Bulletin Board, Health and Organization.

The duty of the election committee is to count votes after the elections for officers and other school honors. Travis Drosche, Letitia Kinzbach, Barbara Smith, Mike Hattwick, and Mr. Mills are on the committee.

At the end of the year, the nominating committee will nominate eight juniors to run for the Student Council offices of next year. On this committee are Bill Fenoglio, Alice Bell, Paul Boone, and Anne Wilkinson.

Carmen Stallings, Judy Anderson, Marsha Morgan and Lou Parks have the responsibility of keeping events posted on the bulletin boards and posters for the school.

"Keep our school beautiful" is the slogan of Janie Beely, David McStravick, Alan Harp, Arthur Paris and Lynn Draper who are on the health committee.

Meeting with Dr. Watts and Mr. Costlow, Mike Blackledge, Elbert Coker and William Hamlett will discuss any business concerning the organization of any new clubs. They compose the organization committee.

"We need the support of every one in the whole school to make our job a success," say the members of the Student Council. These committees strive to make students of Lamar proud of their school.

Musicians Hold Trongone Dance To Raise Funds

To help pay his hospital bills, the Musicians Union sponsored a dance for the Edward Trongone Benefit Fund, Sunday, September 21 from 7 until 11.

The Ed Gerlach Orchestra, The Rob Smith Orchestra, The Bo Boyd Modern Jazz Band, and the Mac Dale Dixielanders entertained.

CSU Speakers, Programs Stress Christian Living

"Christ is the only one who can provide a person with complete happiness, as well as the promise of everlasting life," stated Mr. Gordon Whitelock at the September 23 meeting of the Christian Student Union.

Mr. Whitelock asked that anyone who has not accepted Christ as Lord and Saviour, talk to a Christian and find the way to the most abundantly happy life in the world—the Christian Life.

Mr. Whitelock also led the CSU members in singing their theme song, "For God So Loved the World," and several other songs. Liz Lamkin then sang a solo.

At the first CSU meeting of the year, held September 16, the Choralettes sang several religious songs including "Lift Up Your Heads," "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," and "The Lord's Prayer."

In the future, CSU members will hear Buddy Dial, Rice football player who is very active in the Campus Crusade for Christ, Mary Beth McDonald, well-known Houston model, Mr. David Hamilton, who works with Young Life, and many other outstanding Christians. The Mixed Chorus and the Lamar-O-Liers will also sing.

Orenda Notice

Subscriptions for the Orenda will begin October 22 and end November 4. The homeroom representatives will have charge of the orders. You can pay five dollars during the drive or make a down payment and pay the rest in the spring.

GENTRY PLAYS WEATHERMAN

Mr. Calvin Gentry's physics class was discussing the building of an electroscope, a machine which detects the presence of static electricity, present only in cold, dry weather, when Johnny Walker asked whether or not the machine itself must be built in warm, humid weather or cold, dry weather.

"I think that you'll prefer cold, dry weather," Mr. Gentry replied. "It's so much easier to work when you're not hot and sweaty."

Conference Held At U of H, Oct. 11

The annual Student Activities Conference of Southeast Texas will be held October 11 in the Ezekiel W. Cullen Auditorium at the University of Houston from 8:30 until 1:00 p.m.

Sponsored jointly by the University of Houston and the University of Texas Intercollegiate League, this conference is for students, teachers, and administrators. The representatives will be from the categories of debate, drama, declamation, extemporaneous speech, journalism, number sense, original oratory, poetry reading, ready writers, slide rule, student council, television and radio, and yearbook.

Programs will be distributed at the general assembly and afterwards the students will go to their respective workshops.

All Clubs Unite To Help Orphans

Saturday, October 18, is the date set for a charity project including every girl who is a member of one of the five social clubs. The girls participating will entertain the children of Faith Home by taking them to the Hermann Park Zoo and treating each child to a homemade sack lunch. The outing is to be an annual project designed to promote inter-club co-operation.

"THE NIGHT OF JANUARY 16TH"—Bob Foxworth, Betty Knauth, Nick Kuntz, and Barbara Bergstrom rehearse for the Activities Conference, October 11.

Drama Department Attends U of H Conference Oct. 11

The Drama Department will present "The Night of January 16th" at the University of Houston for the annual South Texas Activities Conference, October 11.

The play, a comedy-mystery, will be directed by Mrs. Ruth Denney, head of the Drama Department.

Lamar has been invited to the Activities Conference for the last two years since the Lamar entry has won the regional finals in One-Act Play each preceding year. Mrs. Denney stated, "Actually it's good that this comes up at the very first of school because it prompts us into action during the first weeks of school, but it does delay the fall show a bit!"

Clint Baird is the student director and the cast includes Nick Kuntz, Bob Foxworth, Dave Donbrown, Betty Knauth, Barbara Bergstrom, Barbara Hoffman, Marty Bradt, Jim Bass, Arthur Robinson, Sam Williams, Charles Oldham, Clayton Munger, Carol Smith, Arlene Edson, and Peggy Brown. The crew is made up of Tom Parker, Dan Durst, and Milton Peacock.

Mrs. Denney also stated that even though the play will be presented at Lamar later this year, she would like to invite everyone to see the play at the University of Houston.

Wright Elected FFA Secretary In District Meet

Donald Wright, secretary of the Lamar chapter of the Future Farmers of America, was elected district secretary at the monthly meeting of the FFA, held September 22, at Aldine High School.

The district is composed of the twenty-six high schools in the Houston area that have Vocational Agricultural Departments. Each chapter has two voting delegates who meet each month at various schools to make plans for the coming months.

Donald's duties will include keeping the minutes of the district meetings, notifying delegates before meetings, and corresponding with district secretaries all over the country.

Aside from his secretarial duties, Donald is busy raising a lamb for the Houston FFA Fat Stock Show, which will be May 5-7, at the Port City Stock Yard.

Illig Wins Award For Short Story

Carol Illig has won honorable mention in the Seventeen Magazine short story contest. Winning is nothing new for Carol; last year she placed second in the same contest.

Her story, "The In Between," describes the problems a teen-age girl encounters in her relations with her younger brother.

Carol's other literary accomplishments include contributions to the Houston Public Schools Anthology and to the Lancer.

Groups Cheat;
Copy Homework

Within the halls of Lamar there exist certain little groups of organized crime. These organizations do not take bets on the fourth at Santa Anita; they do not terrorize the city with threats of violence; they are not headed by Public Enemy No. 1... nor even 2, 3, or 4.

They are simply the brain children of those students whose motto is, "Tis better to survive together than to die alone." Their basis of operation is simple. "I'll get question one of the homework, you get two, and Agatha Fudge-a-Little will do three."

This is a charming scheme, and it often works; but what about the times it doesn't? What about the one time in ten when something goes wrong, or when a test pops up unexpectedly, (as tests so habitually do)? What about the time when the questions on the finals are the very ones you copied from your next door neighbor?

And if you plan to go back over all the work you should have learned for the whole term the night before the final... forget it. Neither Rome nor education can be built in a day.

Television Great
In Its Place

"My Baby Loves Western Movies" we are assured by no less a personage than someone whose name I have cleverly forgotten. Since this is obviously inspired doctrine, we must accept it as fact or risk the wrath of the gods of Madison Avenue and Fort Hood.

I, however, being a chronic dissenter, do hereby and herewith issue my appeal to heresy. I hate Western movies, particularly TV westerns!

Possibly more than any other factor, TV (with or without "Westerns") tends to destroy a person's grades and initiative to learn. Why read a good book when you can watch "I Love Lucy" and be painlessly, easily entertained? Why study when "Gunsmoke" is blaring forth from the local crystal ball?

I may be just a "crier in the wilderness," but I seriously doubt whether "21" will replace Shakespeare as one of the greatest classics of the Western World or "I've Got A Secret," the novels of Tolstoy and Dostoyevsky.

Don't get the wrong idea; television is fine—in its place. But it's hardly the be-all and end-all of civilization and when it assumes this position in our lives, we are giving it something it neither deserves nor requests.

Addicts of the world, unite; you have nothing to lose, but your lack of intelligence!

RISK WAR?

3 SAY 'YES'

SHOULD WE SEND OUR TROOPS TO FORMOSA.

Steve Lawrence answered:

Yes! If we continue in our complacency the Reds will eventually build up power to completely destroy us without risk of retaliation. If we do not do something now, we will be forced to do something in the future at a time when things will be worse for us.

Eldon Jones answered:

Yes! I think the United States should take a firm position and not back down any more to Russia.

Claire Timmons answered:

Yes! I believe that such a move would be necessary, in order to strengthen the free world's confidence in our democratic principles, and in order to show Russia and Red China that we intend to support these principles.

HITHER, THITHER

Ignatius Normal--
He Is, He Is, He Is

BY GENE CLEMENTS

Some people seem to think that Ignatius Snigglefritz, Hither Thither reporter, is abnormal—simply and solely because I referred to him as a ghoul in this column last issue. Let me assure you that this idea is totally absurd!

Possibly its Snigglefritz's favorite greeting which tends to classify him. "Pick a number between one and ten," Snigglefritz asks. The number being duly chosen, Ignatius pops off with, "You lose—take off your—" Glub! Mr. Costlow, assistant principal, didn't think that this was one bit funny.

Other people try to infer that Snigglefritz is off beam just because of the crowd that he hangs out with. Two of the group (which makes its headquarters at The Mouse Hole, local beanery) have recently gotten married. One is a sadist; the other a masochist. "Beat me, beat me" is the plaintive cry of the masochist. The sadist's reply is a simple, "Nope!" One of Snigglefritz's other friends just sits, crouching, in the corner at headquarters, assuring all those who pass by that he hasn't been born yet.

Still others try to blame heredity for Ignatius' little peculiarities. One uncle used to hang on the wall and say that he was a telephone; another wheeled a wagonload of vegetables from Des Moines to Poughkeepsie in a square-wheeled wheelbarrow; still another spent the last thirty years of his life circulating a petition for Sacco and Vanzetti. One aunt, more normal than the rest, merely thought that she had a diamond in one nostril. People used to call his brother, "Darwin," because he reminded them of the missing link. According to Ignatius, however, "They weren't insane, just a little tired—that's all."

Some groups at school seem to feel that he's slightly irregular, going on the basis that he must be since he can't afford a psychiatrist, doesn't like liquor, and, as a result, pours out in the form of lurid testimonials, his troubles to the nearest High Priest of the Cult of Cosmic Alley. The ROTC is a little wary of him because of the black shirt he insists upon wearing and his crazy speeches about the "New Order." His autographed picture of Franco which he wears around his neck also seems to offend some Loyalists around Lamar.

Once in grammar school, a majority of the students became so fearful about Snigglefritz's state of mental health that they circulated a petition to have him examined by the school psychiatrist (this was in one of those nasty, dirty, filthy, progressive schools). Luckily, however, no one yet knew how to sign his name, so Snigglefritz escaped unharmed—battered but unbowed.

In short, I should like to end this column on a plea for the reporter. Come on, y'all, stop throwing stones at him! It gives him feelings of gross inadequacy!

Of Mice and...

In keeping with the policy of the Lamar Lancer to publish the truth—we feel that the following shouldn't be published. Assuming, however, that you have the fortitude to withstand all the pressures of the world in one small column we gracefully submit "Unpopular humor for unpopular people."

One of the first truths to be pointed out is that since the arrival of the sub for Mr. Tron-gone, band director, who is still ill, the band-room shall henceforth be known as "Carnegie Hall."

Many of you might know of a popular Lamar student named Cookie who was in a recent accident. She was walking under a bridge when it fell on her. Cookie is all right now, but for a while all her doctor could be heard to say was, "That's the way the Cookie crumbles!"

After a recent social club party, a Lamar boy (name withheld) wandered out to a parking meter—dropped a dime in—and exclaimed, as the needle went to sixty, "My gosh, I've lost a hundred pounds!"

Dudley Deen, leaving the Lancer room: "Have permit. Will travel."

After committing ourselves to full liability I think that it should . . . we think that this would be an appropriate time to stop

PROUDLY WE PRESENT BETTY, RONNIE

Drama, Sports Fill Time

Cheerleader, actress, personality contest winner, and club president, Betty Knauth has been all four.

Even back in Lanier, Betty was secretary of the graduating class, Most Popular girl, and maid in the May Fete. At Lamar, she has been in the Lamar May Fete three times; as maid, duchess, and princess. Last year she was first lady of Lamar and treasurer of the junior class.

Many people know her as cheerleader, but her name is also linked with the Drama Department. Last year she appeared in "Roomful of Roses," the one act play that won state. For her presentation she received best actress in state.

Besides being in Kachina and National Thespians, she won second place in duet acting at Baylor last year and second in Girls' Dramatics at Beaumont. She is now working on "Night of January Sixteenth," which will be presented at the University of Houston.

Now president of Niwauna, Betty has also been New Members Chairman and Corresponding Secretary.

Betty plans to attend college next fall, but she is not sure where, yet.

Brains and brawn? The answer to that question is Ronnie Jacobs.

Ronnie, Lamar football letterman, combines his athletic skill and scholastic ability very successfully. At Lanier Junior High School he received the American Legion Award, the highest scholastic award to be given.

Also while he was at Lanier he managed to letter in football, basketball, track and swimming. In the ninth grade, Ronnie was elected "Most Handsome" and "Most Popular." He was also elected president of his class.

At Lamar Ronnie has not wasted much time, either. While playing football, which is, he stated, "a year round program," he maintains a 4.9 average and is a member of National Honor Society. Ronnie was also elected junior class president.

What next in the busy life of Ronnie Jacobs? He plans to finish out the year at Texas and continue going there to become an electrical engineer or go on to Harvard or Yale. When asked if he plans to play football at college, Ronnie said, "I don't know. That is a big decision."

TWO BITS, FOUR BITS... RAH!

Ronnie, Betty, a Winning Team

GOING PLACES AND DOING THINGS

Coming Of Fall Heralded By Variety Of Parties

By Anita Jones

The coming of fall was heralded by many and varied parties, including coke parties, garden parties, dinner dances, slumber parties, and bar-be-ques.

"Twelve to nothing" was the happy chant of Linda Darnell and Johnny Dull, Martha Yearguin and Don Kerr, Paula Greenlee and Harper Mahan, Lyn Kuhn and Bob Cummings, and Maria Burke and Clint Baird, as they left the Jeppesen Stadium on September 23, when Lamar scalped Jeff Davis.

Betsy Johnson gave a party at her home after the Jeff Davis game, Mike Hattwick and Vanita Berson, Carol Fannin and Tommy Henderson, and Betsy and Kenny Anderson were among the people there.

"THE PLACE"

The Tone-Maids, Sukey Fenoglio, Liz Lamkin, and Audrey Riggs, were part of the entertainment which heralded the opening of "The Place" on Friday, September 26. Sukey Fenoglio and Nolan Marye, Liz Lamkin and Frank Udemil, Micki Gaine and Jack Faussemagne, Audrey Riggs and Charles Shirar and Betsy Johnson and Lee Masterson all plan to attend the dances at "The Place."

Bar-be-que was the center of attention on September 26 at the home of Johnny Wofford. After the bar-be-que supper, Johnny and Bonnie Hubley, Sharon Wycoff and John Greacen, and Vila Hamrick and Neal Vogan went to "The Place."

Susan Adams and Jay Farr, Martha Morgan and Freddie Ames, and Janet Hetherington and Bill Yander were only several of those seen at the Junior Cotillion dance at the Houston Country Club on September 27.

The Key Club was the scene of the Bel-Mar's semi-formal dance. Nellie Thomas and Andy Carothers, Nancy Bradley and Arthur Mullan, Clydene Dannerster and Bill Price, Ann Neuen-schwunder and Neil Weaver attended.

SLUMBERS"

Laurie Wilson gave a slumber party, at which Ann Carter, Lyn Kuhn, Judy Davenport, Charlotte Loucks, Sharon Powell, Jill Caldwell, Joyce Wigzell, and Pearl Seefeld tried their best to keep each other awake. They succeeded.

Another slumberless night was spent by Linda Darnell, Sue Harlow, Betty Knauth, Jo Ann Miller, and Sara McGowen at the slumber party given by Wilda McMenemy.

The Gulf Coast Room of the Houston Club was the scene of the Twilighters dinner-dance. First in line for the buffet dinner were Suzanne Waller and Dickie Thornton, Karon Hughes and James Bell, Kathie Malick and Don Lewis, Pearl Seefeld and Don Moore, Georgia Reynolds and Paul Brindley, Lydia Blair and Arthur Faris, and Ann Gready and Linn Draper.

POSTERS—POSTERS

The home of Pat Norton was the scene of a Tawasi poster-making party. Many of the good ideas on ways to advertise the Tawasi pom-poms came from Linda Arnold, Janet Willis, and Sara McGowen.

Another poster-making party was held at the home of Emily Neece. To advertise the Mirabeau pay-dance Patty Moore, Nancy Culbertson, Mary Mouser, Karen Ashmore, and Judy Anderson were knee-deep in glue, poster paper, and paint.

The Satellites Dance Club gave their first dance of the fall season at Steve's Western Bar-B-Que House. Sandra Marr and Chas. Morris, Carolyn Chenault and Johnny McHattion, Ramona Bowen and David Grubbs, Becky Marshall and Clifford Chatham, and Nancy Kleir and Larry Hitt enjoyed the party (and the bar-be-que too).

On October 4 Sharon Stremmel and Janet Willis gave a brunch-on at the Willow-Wisp Country Club. Bermuda-shorted and bare-kneed guests were Anne Weaver, Kay Cole, Anne Watts, Kay Patton, Barbara Jackson, and Susan Forester.

On a wet Saturday, September 20, Nancy Norvell gave a coke party at her home for the Palamar Social-Service Club. With a coke in either hand were Joanne Edmundson, Lou Parks, Betsy Kaiser, Laura Jane Winfrey, Dee Post, Margaret Moore, and Toby Trumps.

The San-Sousi Bells gave a garden party on Saturday, September 27. Seen there were Judy Todd, Sherry Shoenfield, Marcia Horton, Winifred Earle and Pam Ballard.

The Irari Picnic was held September 27, at the ranch of Freddy Strauss. Some of the dudes at the ranch included Kendall Hamilton and Carolyn Beatty, Pat Shannon and William Hamlett, Audrey Riggs and Ray Ponge, Mary Strauss and Dick Cooksey, and also Freddy and Margaret Hoover.

JEANS AND GINGHAM

Western clothes were the order of the day on October 3, when Letitia Kinzbach, Babs Blum, Toby Trumps, and Diana Dunham gave a western dance at the Bill Mraz Hall. Dressed in jeans and gingham were the hostesses and their dates, Letitia and Larry Hitt, Babs and William Hamlett, Toby and Frank Jones, and Diana and Stephen Eugberg, and also Marilyn Melton and Duncan Neblett, Jessica Darling and Donnie Longcope, and Jane Flaitz and George Watson.

C. C. Humphrey Screams, "Buy!"; Support Lamar

BY CAROLYN CAROTHERS

Many are the trials and tribulations of C. C. Humphrey. Each day proud C. C. mingles among the many studious (?) students of Mirabeau B. Lamar High School at 3325 Westheimer, down the street from the River Oaks Country Club, trying to sell the product of her labor. Each day C. C. begs the football hero worshipers of Mirabeau B. Lamar High School at 3325 Westheimer down the street from the River Oaks Country Club to part with their hard earned (?) money to contribute to the spirit at said school on said street mistaken for said country club. C. C. and her many companions who work so hard to show the other schools that Mirabeau B. Lamar High School at 3325 Westheimer down the street from the River Oaks Country Club has the true spirit of a winning high school and is behind her team all the way should receive a big hand. Be sure this big hand you give them is filled with money for mums, pom-poms, slogan slips, and school blotters, stickers and streamers. So remember the immortal words of C. C. Humphrey, "Buy, buy, buy for Mirabeau B. Lamar High School at 3325 Westheimer down the street from the River Oaks Country Club."

PRESENTING 1958 IRARI COURT

Presidents, vice-presidents, social chairmen, publicity chairmen, and sponsors of Irari, Wichaka, and Tawasi met at Linda Arnold's house at 3013 Wroxtton Road after school, September 26, to discuss plans for their pay dance the three clubs are giving together.

The first Young Life Club meeting of the new season met at Sukey Fenoglio's house on September 30. In spite of the heavy downpour of rain, about seventy Lamar students came out to sing, pray, and talk together.

in the auditorium from 7:45 to 8:10, CSU presents a varied program of inspirational speakers and religious music.

Presiding over the weekly meetings is the president, Marietta Morris. Other officers are vice presidents, Vann Phillips and Gail Norris; secretary-treasurer, Sukey Fenoglio; chaplain, Tom Herren; publicity, Audrey Riggs, Judy Anderson, and Margo Garrett; and sergeants at arms, Bill Conner and Dan Durst. Mr. E. B. Adams is the sponsor.

LAMAR-O-LIERS

Every day at third period strains of "Deep Purple" and "Seventy Six Trombones" may be heard in the vicinity of the third floor. Those are the Lamar-O-Liers rehearsing for their many programs this fall season. Among the music in rehearsal is "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn; "Hallelujah" by Lewondowski; "Seventy Six Trombones" by Wilson; and Vincent Youman's selections of the more popular music.

"We are going to have a wonderful season in '58 and '59," stated Mrs. Rosamond Glosup, sponsor of the group. "We have many new trios and expect this to be our biggest season yet."

RADIO GUILD

"Turn the mike on!" "Please sign the board!" "Pass me another cookie!" These were the sounds heard from T-3 Monday afternoon, September 22, 1958. It was the first meeting of the Radio Guild, sponsored by Mrs. Guinevere Nash.

Rough Redskins Raid Davis; Return With Panther Scalp

The Lamar Indians scalped the Jeff Davis Panthers, 12-0, in Jepsen Stadium Thursday night, September the 25th.

The first touchdown was made by Richard Schaffer with nine minutes of the first quarter gone. The ball had been marched down to the Davis three yard line, and he piled over from there. In the second quarter Jimmy Sartwell hit the left side of the line and hurried for 31 yards to bring home the last touchdown of the game.

Lamar began this game with three of the starting team out of the lineup because of injuries. They were Bruce Langston, who had a bruised hip, Ray Poage, who had a bruised back, and Larry Surls, who will be out indefinitely from a separated shoulder. The others should be ready for the game against Milby.

During the game, back Lin Herndon was kicked in the head but apparently it wasn't very serious because he was able to play part of the second half.

Indians Profit By Single Wing

By Mike Dyer

With the arrival of October the football season is now in full swing. This year, as every year, the coaches are having their headaches trying to think up new plays which will add an extra punch to their offenses and, in some cases, adding a whole new formation and system.

Lamar again this year is running from the single wing. This formation is said by some to be out of date, but if one will look back, it was the single wing team that brought the only state football championship to Lamar and Houston.

The 'wing' is primarily a power formation, while the T is a deceptive system. The wing offense offers what is known as two-on-one or power blocking. An example of this would be an off tackle play to the right. The blocking back and wingback will block the defensive end. The right end and tackle will block the other end while the left guard and middle guard will pull out of the line and lead the ball carrier.

The terminology in this system is completely different from that of the T. In the T formation you have a left or right end and tackle, where in the single wing you have a strong or weak side end or tackle, depending usually if the formation is single wing right or left. If the formation is to the right, the strong side end is the right end, but if the formation is left the strong side end is the left end.

The kicking game is one of the big factors in a successful single wing system. With the T system you take your three cracks at the line and if you don't make it you kick out. With the wing if it is third down and eight or ten yards to go and you're on your side of the fifty yard line, you have the advantage of the quick kick. This is when the tailback or fullback will take the snap from center, take one step back and kick the ball. This type of kick is quite different from the usually high spiraling fourth down boot. It is usually a low end-over-end boot with a good roll. The advantage of this type of kick is that there is no one to field, and you can get a good roll. Also, with this threat the defensive backfield must loosen up, and when it does you have a much better chance to have a successful passing attack.

The success of the single wing's running game depends on the guards. It is the guards who pull out of the line and lead the ball carrier on off tackle play and end runs. The guards must have good size and better than average speed.

The wing is not a popular system with most football fans. The main reason being that the wing is notorious for scoring few points, and one has to be content to pick up three or four yards through the middle on power plays.

An interesting sidelight to this is that Lamar scored four touchdowns in the first three games. Three of those were long runs from single wing formation. Lin Herndon went 30 yards up the middle against Baytown; Richard Schaffer went 49 yards on an inside reverse against Pasadena; and Jimmy Sartwell broke off the weak side tackle for six points against Davis.

The single wing with its power and speed can be a very successful formation and one that is interesting to watch.

Sanderson Roars

"We still are learning, and by the score of the games we have a lot to learn," stated "B" team coach Sanderson after Lamar's third straight loss of the year. The Papuoses have lost to Baytown, 12-1, Pasadena 50-0, and Davis 6-0.

Poage Stars In 'Skin Upset Of Milby Buffs

A greatly improved bunch of boys from Lamar scored a minor upset over the previously undefeated, unseared on Milby Buffaloes last Thursday night in Jepsen Stadium by a score of 10-0. Lamar received a lucky break in the first few minutes of play when a Milby center was way high and bounced into the end zone. The Indian line rushed in to smother the man who picked up the ball to get a safety and their first two points.

The entire game proved to be a great defensive battle throughout the rest of the first half. However, the Buffs threatened when they started off on a 67 yard drive. Ray Poage calmed the danger by intercepting a pass. This was the closest that Milby ever came to scoring on the Redskins.

The Indians received their second fortunate break late in the third period. Ronnie Jacobs had gotten off a tremendous kick which rolled dead on the Milby 7 yard line. The Buffaloes, unable to move the ball from that spot, were forced to kick. The kick was a poor attempt for Ray Poage ran it back to the Buff's 28 yard line setting up Lamar's only touchdown. Poage made another successful run of 19 yards to put the ball on the Milby 5 yard line. Two plays later he plunged over from the yard line. The try for extra point was good on a Poage to Ince pass. This brought the score to 10-0, and that is what it remained for the rest of the game.

Lin Herndon and Ray Poage accounted for practically all of Lamar's rushing yardage with Herndon getting 45 yards and Poage 51 yards.

Lamar's Skilled 'Eleven' Will Face Bulldogs Soon

Lamar will run into one of the area's finest offenses when they renew their rivalry with the Reagan Bulldogs Friday night, October 17th, at the new Delmar Stadium on Magnum Road at 18th Street.

The Bulldogs have shown a well rounded ground attack in the early season games and have strengthened their defense as the season wears on.

The highlight of the Bulldogs' season so far was their 14-0 upset victory over highly rated Galena Park after they lost their opener to Beaumont, 19-1.

Ronnie Wright, a two year letterman, will be quarterbacking the Bulldogs' powerful 'T' formation. Backing up Wright in coach Joe Tulsa's backfield will be Ronnie Cobb at left half, Eddie Butler at right half, and Bill McMillan at fullback.

Lamar will roll into this annual clash with the Bulldogs with two weeks rest after the Milby game of last week. Coach Pepper's crew should be in top shape and ready to go at full speed for this game.

Reagan will come into this game with a slight weight advantage. The Bulldogs will average 191 pounds per man in the line and 168 pounds per back for an over all average of 183 pounds per man. Lamar will average about 184 pounds per man in the line and 180 in the backfield for an overall team average of 182 pounds.

Lamar upset Reagan last year 20-6, and it is well known that the Bulldogs will be out in strength this year to beat Lamar. It should be one of the best, if not the best game of the year, so don't miss it.

Let's make this year the best ever.

Western Tour by Beckerly Covers Archeological Sites

Searching for Indian drawings, panning for gold, and exploring volcanic cones were all part of an exciting summer for James Beckerly, a junior who spent over a month on an archeological trip in Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado. Sponsor was Dr. David Gebhard, director at Roswell Museum, Roswell, New Mexico.

One of the main objects of interest was the Indian drawings found on many canyon walls. James estimates that there are about 300,000 drawings in that area and that they are about four or five thousand years old. After digging about four feet in one canyon, they found arrowheads, fire pits, bones, and other evidences of an Indian civilization. In making an excavation such as this, James learned how to take photographs or draw pictures at every four inch level so that the formations might be studied.

Looking for fossils was another project. The group found clams, oysters, dinosaur bones, and even sharks teeth. On an excursion into the Badlands, where it is 139 degrees in the shade, they found the bones of a rhinoceros.

In Atlantic City, Wyoming, which has been a ghost-town since 1870, they panned for gold and even found a few nuggets. The town, which is near the Oregon trail, now has a population of about five, and even the graveyard has been moved.

"The Oregon Trail is still there, just two ruts in the prairie," said James.

James attended an Indian Sun Dance, in which the dancers went three days without food and water. He also explored a volcanic cone and one member of the party even found a small diamond.

James feels that he greatly profited from this trip. He says, "I gained a lot of experience in archeology and also became familiar with that part of the country. This may influence my choice of a career."
